

NEW Wi-Fi SERVICE!
Exchange Connect

Wireless "homespots" now being installed in all government housing.

The Army and Airforce Exchange Service, in cooperation with TKS, will introduce a brand new wireless Internet service at all on-base housing units in Germany. The service called Exchange Connect will deliver convenient high-speed web access to all government housing areas beginning this summer.

Access Required: home installation

Prior to the launch of this service, technicians will begin installing wireless access points or "homespots" inside all on-base housing units in the winter/spring of 2013. If you live in government housing, we hope that you will accommodate technicians when they make their rounds in your area.

Homespot installation typically takes between 15-30 minutes and is of course completely free of charge. Technicians will need access to your main cable tv receptacle that is normally located in your living room. If you subscribe to cable TV, telephone, or Internet services, the homespot installation will not interrupt any of your existing services.

Exchange Connect High-Speed Internet

- prepaid Wi-Fi
- housing units Germany-wide
- 6,000 Kbps connectivity
